What: The team at Canine Inspired Change develops and leads classes blending dog training and therapy to teach students self-calming techniques, patience, compassion and confidence while building communication skills and establishing healthy boundaries. Students work with trained therapy dogs and handlers and will have the opportunity to have hands on contact with the dogs during a session including but not limited to learning how to guide a dog through an agility course. Working a dog through a customized agility course empowers students by exploring new ways of growth and learning through the unique experience of working with an animal.
